

TEXT FISH

WHY IT IS FISH?

Text «fish» is prepared, copied or handwritten text to save time, which is inserted into the page layout to demonstrate its conditional external content during development or to test the font. Text Fish is also used to verify text transmission over communication lines, test programs and printing devices.

The standard text of this type is Cicero's work «Lorem Ipsum», written in different interpretations. Up until now, the fish content has not mattered, however, the use of repetitive sentences has never been welcomed as it knocks people down.

Nowadays, it is customary to compose such a text-fish that it causes the desire to accept the layout. But do not forget that this is just a temporary text, and when creating the site it must be replaced. No matter how trivial it may be, but in our practice to promote sites of such examples was enough.